DAILY NEVADA STATE JOURNAL

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30th, 1878.

The current of Congressional affairs was slightly disturbed by the little disagreement between Senators BLAINE AND HOAR.

The dispute was ostensibly over the parts played respectively by Maine and Massachusetts in the war of 1812; but the real cavus belli was the vote of the Massachusetts delegation in the Cincinnati Convention. It is conceded that the

BLAND SILVER BILL

Will pass the Senate by a two-thirds vote. That the President will veto the bill is feared by its friends, but many say he will sign it with the understanding that the Government shall continue to pay the interest on the public debt in gold. The

TELEGRAPHIC SUFFRAGISTS

Are still besieging Congress, as the women of Massachusetts alone pay taxes on $131,000,000 of property, who can say with justice that they should not have a voice in legislation? Among the contributors to art in the Capital,

MRS. FASSETT

Stands in the front rank. She is an American lady who has struggled in the thorny and uncertain paths of art, until she has touched the topmost round in the golden ladder of fame. Before the fire this lady and her husband possessed one of the most extensive art studios on the continent, in the great and then wealthy city of Chicago. Now that the trees are stripped of leaves the new

STATE DEPARTMENT BUILDING Is beginning to show something of its vast extent and beauty. The work on the building is not progressing in the railroad style of Mullet, but as fast as is consistent with discretion and the amount of the appropriation available for the purpose. The south front is entirely complete; and is imposing in its vast proportions and commanding elevation. When complete this building will throw the Treasury building, near it, entirely in the shade, not by reason of its greater beauty, but from the fact that a portion of the latter is sunk some feet below the grade of the street and in order to enter the really beautiful northern front you are obliged first to descend an area, after passing through which, mount another flight of steps before reaching the entrance.

MRS. MYRIA CLARK GAINES Visited the General Land Office to consult with Commissioner Williamson in relation to a claim which she presents for upwards of 10,000 acres of land granted and confirmed to her father, Daniel Clark in 1801 and 1804 by the Board of Land Commissioners. The grants are in Missouri, within seventy three miles of St. Louis. The tracts aggregate about 17,000 acres. Mrs. Gaines wishes to ascertain to whom patents for these lands have been issued.

FRANCIS MURPHY, The great temperance reformer opened the campaign at Lincoln Hall on the Sabbath, and three thousand persons filled the street who could not gain admittance. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed. Hon. R. A. Hatcher, M. C., of Missouri, president. A choir of 150 singers made the great hall ring with gospel temperance songs. A great work in the interest of temperance is now sweeping over this city.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY

Under its new President, W. W. Patterson, L. L. D., founder of the Chicago Advocate, has a hopeful future. Since the panic in 1873, the Trustees have paid off $30,000 of indebtedness and are now arranging for the payment of the last dollar of obligations resting upon the institution. Its buildings, campus and outside improved property and vacant lands will with the revival of business become immensely valuable. It has a large class in both the Theological and Medical Departments. This is one of the few institutions whose doors are open alike to male and female, white and colored. A

NEW PRINTING PROCESS

Is the latest invention by which the reporter can take notes in full copy in type at the rate of 200 words per minute. A person can learn the process in one week so as to transcribe with accuracy and dispatch. A witness can be furnished in ten minutes after leaving the stand with a perfect printed copy of his testimony, a feature readily appreciated by judge, counsel and client. LOGAN.

NOTICE.

NO FRANK DICKER—Take notice that the owners with you in the claims known as Captain D. L. Miller, and E. L. Brown, located May 1878, mining claims, situated in the Pacific Mining District, Washoe County, Nevada, have worked the same in accordance with the United States Mining Law so far as their interests are concerned. Now, therefore you are hereby advised to come forward and contribute your proofs in accordance with the requirements of the United States Mining Laws, within ten days from the first issuance of this notice, and if you do, your co-owners will award themselves of your rights as granted by the United States Mining Laws, approved May 10, 1872, Section 5.

WEDNESDAY. FEBRUARY 6, 1878.

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

The various reports regarding the whereabouts of Sitting Bull have not been disregarded at the War Department. There is a settled determination to make thorough war upon that party whenever and wherever found in our dominion. Permission has been asked and received of the Indian bureau by the military authorities to enlist the Crows against the hostile Sioux. The Crows are old enemies of the Sioux tribes, and have been for a long series of years friendly to the Government, and will be immediately recruited.

Eighty more lodges of agency Indians have left the new agencies on the Missouri intending to go on the war path. This makes 500 lodges that have left altogether. Military officers predict another Indian war, and that it will commence early in the Spring. They expect that serious depredations will be committed on the northern and northwestern borders of Nebraska.

Nicholl's friends in Washington assert that he has no sympathy with the present prosecutions; that they are instigated and carried on by Bourbon Democrats who are opposed to him and his administration, and that he ought not to be held responsible for them. This is undoubtedly true, and should Anderson be convicted, Nicholl's will have an opportunity to show how much independence and moral courage he has when the question of granting a pardon comes to him.

A vote on the silver bill is scarcely probable this week, as many speeches are yet to be made. The anti silver men are depending upon a veto, while the friends of the bill hope for approval or else that the President will let it lie ten days and thus become a law. Although amendments are daily offered, only one is probable—that giving the profits of the coinage to the government.

Conkling presented the petitions of a large number of citizens of many counties of New York in favor of the remonetization of silver.

Buckner will bring his bill to substitute Treasury notes for national bank notes before the Banking and Currency Committee to-day. It is now generally understood that the real object of this bill is to pave the way for a further attempt to get an unlimited issue of greenbacks. It is entering the wedge for a new inflation movement, and will be supported and opposed as such.

J. Madison Wells' bonds are fixed at $20,000. They have not yet been given and he is in prison.

During the last three weeks $3,000,000 worth of United States bonds have been sold in this city on English account, $3,000,000 more are on the way, and orders were received yesterday to dispose of $2,000,000 additional Government bonds.

The Greeks have captured Domoco at the point of the bayonet, with a loss of 150.

A bill to extend the time for completing the Northern Pacific Railroad ten years has been reported by Representative Rice.

The Senate Judiciary Committee have agreed on an unfavorable report of the nomination of Northrup, District Attorney for South Carolina, the chief reason being that Wade Hampton's influence procured his nomination.

AN OLD-TIME WINTER.—Thus far this Winter the ground along the Carson river has not been whitened with snow. It is such a Winter as the old settlers were wont to tell about when the silver mines of the Comstock were first struck. As the Winter of 1859-60 was one of the severest on record, and cattle, horses and stock of all kinds died in piles, of cold and starvation along the Carson, the Comstock miners of that day thought the ranchmen the biggest liars that ever drew the breath of life. We can now see that there was some truth in what they said about cattle finding their own living along the river throughout the Winter.—Enterprise.

The most natural position in which to sleep is upon the right side. This affords the easiest play to the internal organs. So sleep on the back obstructs the circulation of the blood, by the pressure of the stomach and bowels upon the large blood vessels which pass up and down in front of the backbone. It is very tiresome and injurious to lie with the heads above the head.

KEARNEY.

THE EASTERN WAR.

This individual has made a name for himself. Springing from obscurity he assumed the leadership of the workingmen who had determined to wage war against the Mongolians, and by the fierceness of his language soon attracted much attention, both among his own followers and the people at large—including police officers. Many abuse him roundly, accusing him of demagogism and asserting that he has done their cause incalculable harm by his lawlessness, while others are just as earnest in their laudations. A scoundrel at one hand and a curse at the other. Truly the way of a leader is a conflicting one. But Kearney seems to care not for these things, but has gone to Sacramento to "beard the lion in his den, the Douglass in his hall," while a Legislative Committee is investigating certain acts the Kearneyites are responsible for in San Francisco, and they are bringing this new ism into bad odor to all true workingmen, who are law-abiding people. Of Kearney and his retainers it would seem the thing to let them whip themselves to death, or as the homely adage has it, "Give a calf rope and he will break his own neck."

MINING DEBRIS AND NAVIGABLE STREAMS.

The California Assembly Committee appointed to investigate the damages done to navigable streams by hydraulic mining met in San Francisco on Saturday. A. T. Arrowsmith testified that the debris is from 15 to 20 feet in some places in Bear river valley. Captain Wm. Corlett said that in 1850 there were 12 feet of water at the lower end of Steamboat slough; San Pablo Bay has been filled a good deal from Collinsville and a bar has formed in Suisun Bay. At Sacramento the river has been lessened 18 feet in depth by debris. Col. Mendels said that about 158 square miles of land have been formed around the Bay of San Francisco by deposits by the current. This was made before hydraulic mining commenced on the coast. B. E. Redding testified that since the commencement of hydraulic mining a railroad bridge crossing Bear river has been raised three times to keep it above high water mark. At Sacramento the river filled from twenty to twenty-five feet since 1850, and the river on an average has filled up some ten feet since the flood.

ROVER'S CASE.

The Board of Pardons to be Petitioned to Commute His Sentence.

(Winnemucca Silver State, 4th.)

The Board of Pardons will meet in Carson one week from to-day. We learn from the Carson Tribune that Col. Davies and Gen. Clarke will appear before the Board at that time with petitions from all portions of the State, praying that Rover's sentence be commuted from death to imprisonment for life. The Tribune thinks a great majority of the people of this State have doubts as to Rover's guilt, and that no fault will be found with the Board should it decide to commute the sentence. We doubt the correctness of the Tribune's assertion, and do not believe that any considerable number of the people of the State, who know anything about the facts and circumstances of the case as proven in Court, believe in Rover's innocence. There are grounds for a difference of opinion as to his sanity, but none whatever as to his guilt. That he coolly and deliberately murdered I. N. Sharp at the Rabbit Hole sulphur mine those who heard the evidence at his first trial in this county have no doubt. His threats before the murder, his statement made at the preliminary examination, and the fact that an Indian saw him shortly after the murder with his shirt sleeves covered with the blood of his victim, leave no doubt that he is the murderer of Sharp. The Indian's testimony could not be admitted in evidence at his trial, but the fact that a sleeveless shirt, on which there were some blood stains, was found among his clothes, and offered in evidence at his first trial, corroborated the Indian's statement. Rover's sentence ought, perhaps, to be commuted on the ground of insanity; but not for the reason that there are doubts of his guilt in the minds of persons who never heard the facts and knew nothing of the evidence upon which he has been three times convicted. The writer of this does not believe in capital punishment, and consequently does not want Rover executed, but he does believe from the evidence of witnesses—good and true men and women—which he heard at Rover's trials in this county, and from his own statement, made before Justice Davis, that he murdered I. N. Sharp on the night of April 7, 1875, at McWorthy's mine.

NOVEL PLOWING.—During the last summer we witnessed deep-sea plowing in the harbor of Belfast, Me. The bottom of the bay is covered with a tenacious, clayey deposit, into which the steam shovel penetrates with difficulty; and to loosen it a huge Michigan plough was set at work under the water, drawn by steam power on the shore, using a wire rope to form connections. The water at high tide was about twenty feet deep when the plough was working. The man that held it was encased in the diver's armor, and supplied with air by a flexible tube connecting with an air-pump on board of a vessel floating above. He came up at our request, and after removing his air-tight helmet and conversing a few minutes, was again put in connection with the pump, and disappearing under water, went on with the ploughing. This to us was a novel proceeding, and so far as we can learn, it was the first experiment of the kind ever made.

Saddle Rock

The Saddle Rock restaurant is again open to the public, and B. B. Baum thinks he can accommodate the public as well as any other man. He means to serve all the delicacies to be found in market. He has much experience in this line, and we have no hesitancy in commanding the Saddle Rock to the patronage of the public. See his advertisement elsewhere.

OLE ALLISON, one of Reno's first settlers, put in an appearance on our streets after an absence of several years. About all he had time to do was to shake hands with his friends.

Snow in the Mountains.

The Enterprise has the following correct idea of the situation. "After all, there is more snow on the mountains than for many years. It was slow in coming, but when it did begin to accumulate it piled up rapidly. Before the present storm the depth of the snow on the Summit was fifteen feet, and it is said to be well settled and firm, layer having fallen upon layer without melting. The storm of Tuesday probably added to this some feet, perhaps enough to bring the total up to eighteen or twenty feet. This would furnish water sufficient to keep a good milling stage in the Carson river the greater portion of next summer were the mountains covered with forests, as in the early days, but denuded as they now are of protecting trees very warm weather early in the Spring would be liable to sweep away the bulk of it in an unprofitable if not dangerous flood. Of late years the cry has been that there was a dearth of snow, but for which the water supply would not have been inadequate to the requirements of the mill men on the Carson, we are therefore glad to know that this winter we are likely to have an ample depth with which to start off in the Spring in order that the effect of the absence of timber may be observed. We shall see how long a store of snow that would have lasted all summer, when sheltered by forests will last without protection from the direct action of the sun and hot winds."

W. A. Snow.

Coroner Haslund held an inquest upon the body of W. A. Snow, the V. & T. brazier whose untimely death we recorded yesterday. The evidence and verdict did not differ from what we have already published. He was buried yesterday afternoon, a large number of friends paying the last sad attentions to him. His relations will be immediately notified of the occurrence.

Sacramento Flooded

Advices from Sacramento at 7 o'clock last night report that the entire city below R street is under water.

They have bulkheaded at this point and hope to keep the water in check.

The river was standing still at a depth of 24 feet, 8 inches, and they thought it would not rise any more.

COVENTY AFFAIRS.

The Grand Jury on the War Path—County Treasurer Norton pronounced a defaulter—etc.

Though cheated out of the report in full, we herewith present a synopsis of the report of the Grand Jury, which is causing so much excitement and speculation. From those who heard the report read we learn that County Treasurer Norton has been a defaulter in the sum of $13,000, but that his bondsmen had made the defalcation good, and the money is now in the Treasury. Sheriff Lamb is accused of charging and collecting $400 extra fees, the County Clerk is hit a lick, also the Judge, and District Attorney Cain is hauled over the coals very roughly. So also Judge Richardson and Constable Barlow. County Auditor Williams is warned to be more careful in future, and the County Commissioners get it right and left. The document is a red hot one, so say they all, and every taxpayer should read it.

The Grand Jury Report.

Our readers will naturally be very much disappointed at not seeing the report of the Grand Jury in this morning's paper. We share with them this feeling, and hardly know how to explain the reasons which have prevented its publication. The report was submitted yesterday afternoon, but too late for its publication in the Gazette. However, Mr. Comstock, the Clerk, upon application of the Gazette, gave that paper the report, and though every effort was made to get it back, it could not be done, and the Journal, which was justly entitled to it, was cheated out of it by the refusal of the Gazette to return it to the Clerk's office, so our citizens will have to wait until that paper comes out this evening to read it.

LYCEUM.

Last night's session of the Lyceum was one of the most interesting yet held, and many ladies, with their escorts, were in attendance. After the usual routine was gone through with, the army bill came up for discussion, and able speeches were made by Burchard, Falton, Johnson, Cossitt and Beck, after which the bill was continued as the special order for the next meeting and the Lyceum adjourned.
